

Helping Children Connect & Communicate

Do you want your child to get along better with friends? In our group program, children learn language skills that help them form friendships. They also work on developmental skills such as thinking flexibly, emotional regulation, problem solving and independence, all important for getting along with others. Stephanie Harvey, an empathetic Speech-Language Pathologist with 20 years' experience, will help your child to flourish!

New participants come for an individual session before joining a group so we can get to know each other.
